Guidance notes

Data Protection Act 1998 (this applies to the whole application form)

We will use the personal information you have supplied in the application form and in any supporting documents to assess how suitable you are for the job you have applied for and to monitor how effective, efficient and fair our recruitment and selection process is.

We may also use this information in internal proceedings to consider a complaint about the recruitment and selection process or to defend ourselves against a legal challenge on the fairness of the recruitment and selection process. For these reasons, we will keep the information you provide for six months if you are not shortlisted for a job, and two years if we appoint you.

We will check the information you supply with other people and organisations to confirm some of the facts you supply in your application (referees, previous employers, educational establishments, examination bodies and so on).

Section 5 of the application form – Referees

Please give the name and addresses of two people we can contact to get a reference for you. One must be your current or last employer and the other preferably a former employer. If you have not worked before, please give details of teachers, lecturers or others who know you well enough to comment on your ability to do the job. Please do not use friends or relatives as referees.

Section 7 of the application form – Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974

Telling us about a criminal record may not necessarily prevent you from being offered a job.

We may consider:

- the type of offence;
- the time since it happened;
- your age at the time; and
- any other relevant factors;

when we make a decision on whether to offer you a job.

Some convictions are never considered 'spent' under the terms of the Act – for guidance, visit www.lawontheweb.co.uk.

Section 8 of the application form – Posts which are exempt from the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974

As you have applied for a job which involves working with children, we will carry out a Disclosure & Barring Services (DBS) check because these posts are exempt from the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974. Details of these posts are set out in the Rehabilitation of Offenders 1974 (Exception) (Amendment) Order 2001. The DBS is an executive agency of the Home Office which helps employers to check records that were previously held by the police, the Department of Health (DOH) and the Department for Education (DfE). We will ask for an enhanced disclosure due to the nature of the job.

Standard disclosure – for jobs that involve working with children.

Enhanced disclosure – for jobs that involve regularly caring for, training, supervising or being the only person in charge of children. Enhanced disclosures involve an extra level of checking with local police forces as well as checks with the Police National Computer (PNC) and the government department lists held by the DfE and DOH.
